Ceylan

You! Yes, yes, you! Raise your hand and look at inside of one of your fingers. There are some prints on it. Did you see? Of course, you do:) They are fingerprints and every person's fingerprints are different from any other person. There are 8 billion people on Earth. That means there are 8 billion different fingerprints. We are like fingerprints. No one is same. You may hate what I love. Your friend may be crazy about what you find unbearable. You can go somewhere regularly where your cousin never finds it attractive to visit. You may prefer wearing trendy clothes, but your best friends may find that ridiculous. Did you get what I mean? We all have one life and that life may be different from others. Train! Go camping! Attend folk dances courses! Ride a bike! Meet friends! Study! Try trekking! Chat with your buddies! Do homework! Listen to music! Or cook! Whatever you do, do it with %100 and enjoy it. Me? I'm not a more different person. I'm crazy about meeting people and being alone. I cry as much as I smile. I find that making people laugh is impressive, so they have a happy face when they see me. By the way, there is only one thing that makes feel like a bird. I can do it all the time. It is driving :)

Is that possible? The answer is no! So, my answer is "Of course not!" But, I try to do something to do that. The first thing I do is listening to them carefully. Then, I try to feel what they feel. Then, I talk about my opinions honestly. If they listen to me carefully like I do, that is great. But, if they don't, I stop talking and listening. And I move away quickly. :)

Golik: Lots of things: Sleeping bag, a torch, a knife, batteries, a smartphone, some food and a tent.

Hurik: Do you need them all the time?

Golik: Of course. I do my most favourite activity especially across the lakes, rivers, seas or in a forest. There may be dangerous animals or emergency situations, but it is enjoyable.
